SOCIETY EDITOR

Here at home there is little in the way of social gaiety and but for an occasional theater party, dinner or picnic it would be dull indeed. From out of town comes news of how the majority of the fashionable world are passing the season. The smart set in Iron Springs whose numbers are giving countless benefit affairs for a new club house, society folk at the California beaches enjoying rest and recreation and some few maids and matrons who are at the eastern coast resorts or motoring through New England. Miss Helen Ely, the clever daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sims Ely is camping in Canada. Miss Ely has been missed greatly by her hosts of Phoenix friends and they have followed her career with interest. The New York art critics speak favorably of her work which is fast becoming well known. She has a contract with the McClure syndicate and her illustrations will appear in their publications beginning with the August number and continuing for the year.

Mr. and Mrs. James S. Griffin closed their town house, 1105 North Second street Friday when they opened their cottage at Iron Springs. They will motor in the north before their return in the autumn.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Dunlap of 603 West Jefferson street left Thursday for Venice where they will pass the remainder of the summer.

Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Baum of North Seventh avenue joined the Arizona contingent in Southern California Wednesday. There is a possibility of their going to Honolulu before their return in September.

Mrs. Sidney J. Ross will leave the latter part of the week for Prescott where she will be Mrs. Charles McArthur's guest for a few days going later to Toledo. She does not plan to return before November.

Mrs. Luis Ely is again occupying her residence, 140 North First street after a several weeks absence in Mayer, the guest of Mrs. James Bark.

Among those who are leaving for the coast on Friday are Mrs. E. E. Pascoe and Miss Ruby Pascoe of 634 North Second avenue. Mr. Pascoe will join them in Long Beach later in the summer when they contemplate traveling through the northern part of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Bertram who resided at 217 West Portland street last winter are domiciled at the Herman Perry De Mund residence on North Second avenue. The De Munds are at present in Long Beach where Mrs. Bertram will join them early in August.

Mrs. G. H. Bailey will leave Saturday for Houston.

Mrs. William E. Defty of 618 North Third avenue will leave the coming fortnight for Tombstone where she will pass a few weeks with her brother, J. L. Sparks. Later in the season, Mrs. Defty plans to visit in Flagstaff.

Mrs. Margaret Jones and her charming young daughter, Miss Elizabeth Jones of 544 East Adams street will leave this evening for Long Beach. They will pass August in San Francisco and other places of interest in the north. Miss Jones will not return with her mother in the autumn but will remain in Pasadena at school. She will attend Huntington Hall.

Miss Harriet Jean Oliver of Prescott is a recent arrival who will be in town for an indefinite period.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Leonard of West Washington street will leave August 1 for Los Angeles where they will pass a few weeks en route for San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Kirkland of Cocoon Road will leave shortly for the California coast. They will divide their two months absence between Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Mrs. Alice E. Stewart of 822 North Third avenue left Thursday for New Haven. She will be away for an indefinite period, her absence being passed in the woods of Maine, New York and Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kennedy Humbert of the Maricopa Road had as dinner guests Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lohs, Miss Abbie Pickrell and Charles Isham.

Miss Frances Craighend of 1393 East Washington street has returned from a brief vacation in Prescott.

Alexander Baker was a dinner host at Sing's Wednesday evening. Those who enjoyed his hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kingsbury, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Green, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Rowlands, Mrs. Robert Wallace Craig, Miss Kitty Craig, Joe Cassou, Dan Patch and Joe Trotter.

Mrs. P. W. De Jong and her daughter Miss Selma Dye of Grand avenue returned Friday evening from a month's stay in Buffalo.

Mrs. and Mrs. Herbert L. Stevenson gave a charmingly appointed dinner Sunday at their East McDowell street residence complimentary to Miss Lillian Griffin and Charles Gardiner, whose marriage will be an event of July 29. Covers were laid for eight.

One of the recent enjoyable affairs in honor of Miss Lillian Griffin and Charles Gardiner was the picnic supper and swimming party at Riverside early in the week. There were present besides the complimented guests, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Stevenson, Mrs. R. H. Griffin, Mrs. O. G. Flemlister, Miss Ethel McDermott, Miss Ruth Griffin, S. J. Wolf, George Crowder and Roy Stewart.

Frank Lang left Tuesday for Poona where he will pass the remainder of the summer season.

The table's centerpiece was of artistically arranged American Beauty roses and dainty cards marked places for eight.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren McArthur and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney J. Ross are passing the week end at Camp Creek.

Miss Isabelle Irvine left recently for Pinedale, where she will pass the month with the D. D. Crabbs.

T. E. Irvine returned today from a week's absence in Prescott.

CLUB NOTES

Much interest has been demonstrated by club women of Phoenix in the local Young Women's Christian association. Its board of directors contain the names of many prominent in club affairs and they take an active part in association work.

Mrs. E. N. Phillips of the Conservation club is its general secretary. She is a most capable officer and the upbuilding of the organization has been largely through her efforts.

This morning she has written a special article for the Republican telling the need of rest and recreation for the working girl and how it has been met by the Y. W. C. A. For benefit and pleasure the summer camp inaugurated this season will be at the Garden of Allah. Of this Mrs. Phillips tells in her article which follows:

The Play Spirit and the Young Women's Christian Association.
(By MRS. E. A. PHILLIPS)

We are all at our best when we play. Never more than now has the world needed play magic. The right of the child to play has never been denied, although under some conditions it has been ignored. That youth was dependent upon play was lost sight of long before the days of Ponce de Leon. Children are young because they play and not vice versa; men grow old because they stop playing and not conversely. The play ground movement in restoring to the child his inalienable right has come upon the long sought elixir.

Granted space and freedom boys have managed to play on through their teens and beyond, changing the forms of play to suit the age. The "gang" has developed the social sense; team play has made for fair play; the give and take which is at the bottom of true sportsmanship has grown out of tests, contests and competition. All this has been denied girls. Arrest of play for the

How the Rich Grow Richer

Don't envy them—Learn from them.

Did you think that rich men patronize a shop because it carries expensive things, or through some foolish notion of "exclusiveness"? They don't---as a rule.

Rich men buy where they get the best values—not merely where they can spend the most money.

That's one of the reasons why they are rich—they know how and where to get their money's worth.

That's all there is to economy—getting full value whatever you pay. A cut price does not make a bargain—an extra value does.

An extra value at a cut price is a double bargain.

That's what you are offered in the present McDougall-Cassou Clothes Reduction Sale. The Clothes are extra value at regular prices—At the present prices they are a double bargain.

girl in her early teens has been due in part to a misconception of physiology and growth. The sentimentalism of medieval chivalry, placing woman on a pedestal apart, has had its influence, and in these latter days economic conditions have laid a stifling hand upon her, shutting off the chance for play at the very moment she needed it most.

"Soft recreation fits the female mind" sang the ancients, and their teaching on the limitations of women can still be traced in the lines laid down for girl's play. But twentieth century girls are asking for recreation that will put the body at its best, develop endurance and skill, sharpen mental faculties and furnish a social medium. Recreation includes a wide sweep of interests. In addition to active plays such as games, athletics and sports, it takes account of amusements, social entertainments, festivals, music and dramatic expression.

The play role in which we are the actors creates new zest for work and joy in living. Passive play furnishes recreation indirectly. As onlookers we are forced to imagine ourselves in the role of players. Impersonating each in time, we run to escape, or we run in pursuit. We hold our breath; we grow in anguish or shout for joy. Laughter, the gladdest thing on earth and one of the best forms of exercise, gives the pulse bound of real action.

Recognizing this need of play the Young Women's Christian association has made place for it among its varied interests and activities, and has opened recreation centers, in cities in which is centered the social and recreative life of the association. Play is admitted through gymnasium and swimming classes where girls learn to set goals for themselves and in the effort to reach them, moral fibre is woven into the inmost being. Even a girl without physical handicap is surprised to find how many times she must do the same thing before she is sure she can do it well. She discovers that grownups learn to use the untrained parts of the body in the same way that a baby learns to walk, only it is harder and takes longer. In the process of training, through a great variety of exercises and team games, mental powers are awakened and the brain comes into control of the whole range of physical activities, those of the shop or office not less than those in the gymnasium. The trend of thought is changed and the physical director who has had the end in view from the beginning is able to make clear the meaning of the enduring truth upon which Christianity stands, the inseparableness of body and spirit. The incarnation of the spirit in bodily form as it has been spoken for us in Rabbi Ben Ezra.

"As the bird wings and sings let us cry, all good things are ours, nor could help flesh more, now, than flesh helps soul!"
Expansion of playtime ideals through the Y. W. C. A. find further expression in vacation homes or camps, where girls may go for periods of entire relaxation or to engage in joyous activities. Vacation centers are located within easy reach of a group of associations—that there may be interchange of new thought and consequent broadening of horizon, and new friendships formed. The courtesies and festivities of a country house party, go on all summer long. For the fun loving new games, sports and doing stunts, challenge courage and enterprise. A trained leader of recreation is in charge of activities for the entire season. One typical girl wrote of her camp experience, "I would like to go back because I love the spirit of the place—sometimes I want to go back so that I will have the chance to play tennis or go swimming every day, again I want to go back for the peacefulness, restfulness and beauty of the place, and again just so I can sleep out doors and do as I please all day; but I believe the things I really loved the most were the camp fires and beach suppers. Besides all these good times it is worth going back for friendship's sake. You can get better acquainted in one week in a tent in midday and bloomers, than you can in a whole year in the city."

The local Y. W. C. A. in full accord with these ideals which have been fully tried out by other associations, last spring opened a fully equipped gymnasium for women members of the association, which proved a benefit and pleasure to numbers of girls and women during the spring season. With the closing of the gymnasium for the summer, the board of directors decided to try the experiment of a temporary summer camp for girls who need rest and relaxation, but for varied reasons cannot enjoy a long or expensive vacation.

The experiment this year will be tried out at the Garden of Allah. The offer is open to any member of the association. Groups of girls will go to the camp for periods of ten days each, and will be given all the privileges of this delightful little garden spot, only a few hours ride from the city. Camp privileges will be open until October 1, and will be granted in order of application.

Camp existence in this instance does not mean the usual "roughing it" experience, which is often more arduous than pleasant, for association members are cared for in the usual cottages and are guests of the management as are all other guests.

Some day the local association hopes to maintain its own vacation camp—somewhere in the mountains—far enough away where cool breezes blow and yet not too far from the city.

The get-together spirit of association work is further accentuated in the summer conferences which are also summer camps. There are twelve of these throughout the United States. These are not vacation camps only. The morning and evening of each day being devoted to discussion and study of other phases of association activity. Each afternoon has its program of fun. Here student delegations bring the best type of play for which their representative colleges stand. The college girls bring their wealth of experience and resource to share with the girl from
